I. INTRODUCTION

This case involves a petition filed on April 29, 2010, by Vermont Transco LLC and Vermont Electric Power Company, Inc. ("VELCO"), under the procedures implementing 30 V.S.A. § 248(n) as set forth in the Public Service Board's ("Board") Orders of September 5, 2007, and September 25, 2008, requesting a certificate of public good ("CPG") authorizing the installation of wireless telecommunications facilities to be attached to electric substations in the towns of Middlebury, Williamstown, Williston, Rutland, and Highgate, Vermont (the "Project"), pursuant to 30 V.S.A. § 248(n).

VELCO filed the petition, prefiled testimony, and proposed findings with the Board and the Vermont Department of Public Service ("Department") as specified in 30 V.S.A. § 248(n).¹

Any party wishing to submit comments as to whether the petition raises a significant issue with respect to the relevant substantive criteria of 30 V.S.A. § 248, as outlined in the Board's Order implementing the 248(n) procedures,² was required to file its comments with the Board within thirty days.

No comments on the petition have been filed with the Board.
